Description of applicant business/organisation:

Established in 1965 by Dr. Manmohan Attavar in Bangalore, Indo-American Hybrid Seeds (India) Pvt. Ltd (IAHS) is a pioneering Indian company dedicated to advancing the farming community through hi-tech hybrid seeds and horticulture. Dr. Attavar became the first Indian scientist to introduce greenhouses for year-round commercial hybrid seed production, marking a significant milestone in Indian agriculture.

IAHS specializes in extensive Research and Development (R&D), Biotechnology, production, and marketing of hybrid seeds for vegetable crops, field crops, flowers, and ornamental plants. The company also scientifically produces and markets a wide range of exotic ornamental foliage and flower plants.

IAHS operates state-of-the-art R&D centers at Bangalore and Delhi for vegetable crops and at Dharwar, Ranebennur, and Hyderabad for field crops. The organization has developed several high-yielding, disease-tolerant, and superior-quality vegetable and field crop hybrids. These hybrids have played a pivotal role in popularizing hybrid vegetable and field crop cultivation, significantly benefiting farmers across India.

IAHS operates one of India's most advanced Seed Testing Laboratories, conducting comprehensive quality assurance tests for domestic and export seed lots. This laboratory was the first in India to receive accreditation from the International Seed Testing Association (ISTA), Switzerland, in 2002.
